Standard Operating Procedure - Perfect Cold Video Pitch

Presented By Jeremy Haynes

Department: Sales

Estimated Time: 5-15 minutes per video pitch

Goal/Intention: The intention of the perfect cold video pitch is to shorten the sales cycle by providing enough information and value in the video pitch to reduce questions and objections, and to establish yourself as someone that can help the business being pitched. The goal is to get them on a follow up call after they view the video pitch to go over your services, and to see if it's going to be a good fit for both parties to strike a business deal with one another.

Tools Needed:

- Camtasia - screen capture and video capture tool with built in editor
- You could use Loom if you don't want the functionality of Camtasia
- If you use camtasia, you'll need a Youtube Channel to upload the video pitches to as unlisted videos to send out
- Computer or laptop
- Webcam (can be built in one or external, up to you)
- Microphone (can be built in one or external, up to you)
- There's also an option now through loom to shoot video pitches on your iphone if you have limited resources or prefer mobile over computer video pitches

Preparation Steps:

1. This video pitch SOP assumes you are pitching for advertising services, and will be laid out step by step for that. To be clear, you can use this same format and swap out what service is being pitched easily.
2. You'll want to start by having your lead list created and available to you, so you can go 1 by 1 through your list knocking out video pitches in bulk, rather than having to find a lead, make a pitch, and then find another lead, etc
    a. Much easier to flow through a batch of video pitches when you have your lead list handy for who you need to create pitches for.
    b. Some great tools for building lead lists:
        i. https://scopeleads.io/
        ii. https://www.apollo.io/
        iii. https://d7leadfinder.com/
        iv. https://hunter.io/
        v. Local chamber of commerce business directories

vi. Google maps search result listings
vii. Facebook page recommendations viii. Instagram ‘who to follow’ recommendations
ix. LinkedIn sales navigator
x. https://www.whitepages.com/
xi. https://www.salesgenie.com/lp/leads/
xii. https://findthatlead.com/en/

3. It’s easiest to use a CRM you favor or even a google sheet to organize your lead data, we like close.com as it’s built for sales people
   a. Example of a google sheet format to leverage for organization

A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H	I
Business Name	Decision Maker	Email	Phone	Instagram	Facebook	Website	Linkedin	Video Pitch Link
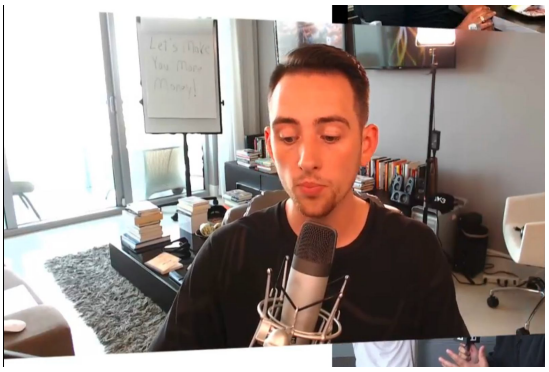
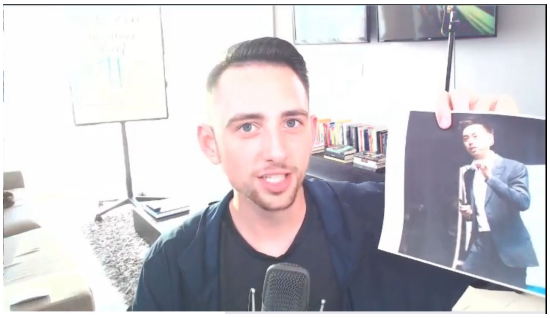
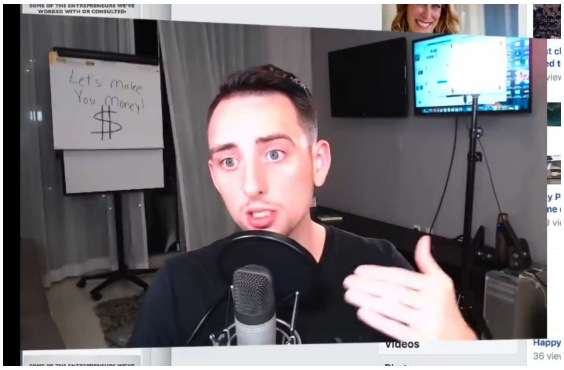
Example business	john doe	john@business.com	305 222 3333	@testname	facebook.com/123	business.com	linkedin.com/123	youtube.com/videopitchfile

   b. Gather as much information as you can on each lead, ideally you’re reaching out on all channels so you’ll want to be prepared with email and social media channels for both the business and the decision maker
4. Make sure to have a good looking environment for the video pitch. Don’t pitch in a dimly lit area or with a messed up background scene. The lighting, how you look, and how you present the environment are all variables that will make or break the client believing in you.
   a. Examples of backgrounds I’ve shot video pitches in over the last 4 years since starting them:
   b.







Process:

1. Open Camtasia or have Loom open
2. Open a browser, and get severals tabs open with the following:
    a. The potential clients facebook video page
        i. This helps understand based on the view count of each video, whether they are already leveraging content in the advertising process, so if you were going to pitch them on a strategy like the Venus Fly Trap, you can easily get context as to whether or not they are leveraging strategies like that
    b. The potential clients website
        i. Feel free to open other tabs with specific offers, or the service page, or pricing page for additional context to leverage during your video pitch
    c. The facebook ad library, and search for the ads of the potential client

i. This tool allows you to see current ads, adns sometimes inactive ads of the client, so you can gauge whether or not they are actively advertising which will help make your pitch more contextual

d. Open up spyfu.com and search for the potential clients domain

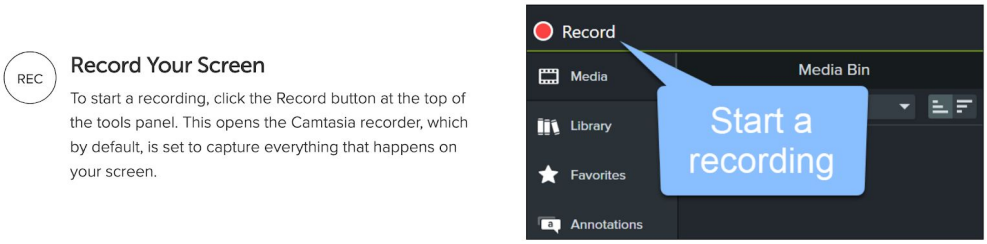
i. This tool allows you to see if the potential client is running ads on google adwords and estimates current spend levels, also allows you to see a history of any PPC ads they were running or are currently running

e. I also like having the ads managers open in a tab, so if I were to be pitching them on FB or Adwords, I'd want both or just one or the other open depending on what I'm pitching so I can show them targeting options available and audience features they could leverage that could help drive revenue

f. If you have any specific strategies you want to walk them through, have that document open on your computer as well

g. If you have any past case studies or testimonials you want to leverage, have those results open or navigate to that clients ads manager or website so you can visually show the results or put a brand to the name when you mention it in your pitch

3. Now that you have your tabs prepared, you're going to start your video pitch.
4. To start recording on Camtasia:



a.

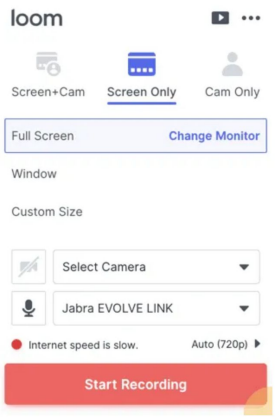
5. To start recording using Loom:

How to record video using Loom Desktop Client

To record video using the Loom desktop client:

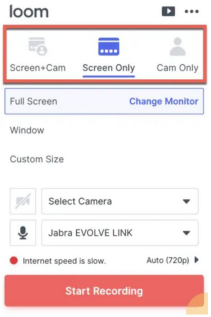
1. Open the Loom desktop Client
2. Select recording type

a.



Loom Desktop Client for Mac

b.



Selecting recording type in Loom

- Screen + Cam
- Screen only
- Cam only

"Screen + Cam" allows you to record both your screen and your pc/mac camera at the same time. "Screen only" records only your screen while "Cam Only" records just your pc/mac camera.

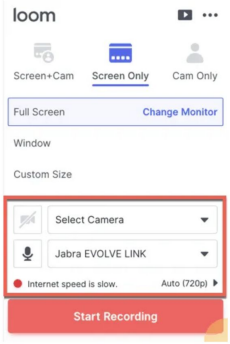
Select your camera and microphone sources



Select camera and microphone options is Loom

The last configurable option before recording is selecting the camera and microphone you want to use. If you are not recording your camera, it will display "Select Camera" for the camera.

Press “Start Recording” to begin your recording session

Finally, you are ready to record! Press the red “Begin Recording” button. You will get a short countdown and then your recording session will begin. When the recording begins, a red “recording” button will appear on the left hand side of the desktop. If you hover on it, it will expand down vertically to reveal three more buttons:

To record a Loom video using the Google Chrome extension:

1. Press the Loom icon in your Chrome browser Press the Loom icon in Chrome. This will bring up the Loom extension user interface.

Loom Chrome Extension user interface

1. Select recording type

Select one of the following options for recording type:

- Screen + Cam
- Screen only
- Cam only

1. Select Full Desktop or Current Tab

The Chrome extension is a little more limited than the full desktop client in terms of what you can record. While the desktop client can record the whole desktop, an application window or a selected area, the Chrome extension can only record:

f.

1. Configure settings
2. Start recording

Recording controls while recording video using Loom Chrome Extension

Once you start the recording, you have the following controls available to you via the Loom control area in the lower-left corner of the Chrome tab (from right to left):

- Start Recording (will be a green checkmark when you are recording)
- Pause recording
- Delete recording

As we saw earlier the extension, not being a full desktop application, is missing some of the features of the desktop client.

1. Press the green checkmark button to end recording

Once you press the green checkmark button, your video will be uploaded to Loom and Chome will open to the video in your Loom my video page.

6. Once you have selected your screen to be recorded, your proper microphone for audio capture, and the video recording of you, your recording will start and you’ll start to flow through the following.

7. I like to start the video pitch on their Facebook page, or website, so they know that I am making it for them and that it's unique.
8. Start with an intro, "Hey (Business name), I'm reaching out to you with this video to bring value you can use, I don't necessarily know who I'm talking to... I doubt I'm talking to the owner, (owner name), but nonetheless, this video will be valuable for anyone watching it, could be the manager, the marketing team, it'll be valuable for everyone. I want to talk about exactly what you guys can do to drive more revenue, and more leads in your business."

9. Then move into the Facebook ad library, or whatever you want to show to give further visual content to your next point, "I'm here in the Facebook Ad Library, and I can see [you're currently running ads] OR [that you're not currently running ads], and it looks like everything is direct response marketing, and that there aren't a lot of tests going on currently in the account. This is a huge opportunity to drive more revenue and leads through FB and IG."
10. I like to pitch people on a strategy, one of my favorites is the Venus Fly Trap strategy, you could also plug anything else here during this part that you think will help drive more revenue, "One of the strategies that we've seen work best for businesses like yours, is the (strategy name you want to use)."

11. From here, I like to either show a strategy document of what I want to help them with that's typed up and has visuals from lucid chart or funnelytics, and then I like to jump into the ads manager to show them some functionality we leverage in the strategy like audiences they might not be using now, or some targeting features, "The strategy works by doing (start explaining the process you want to leverage to help get them more revenue and leads into the business)"
    a.
12. As you're explaining your strategy you want to help them with, remember to use visual aids, things that they can see to help them understand what you're trying to explain to them with words.
13. During this part of the video pitch, the main thing you're attempting to help the business owner understand, is the CPR - Clear Process to Revenue.
    a. The CPR - clear process to revenue is what they care about and is what will help them respond to your pitch at higher rates. If they don't understand how they are going to make money with what you're showing them, I assure you - they will not care about it.
    b. Watch the CPR lesson in the DMM - Digital Marketing Manuscript training for more details on this if needed
14. Now that you've explained the strategy to them, let's go into details about how you can help them, "we'd love the opportunity to help you and your team implement this strategy to help produce additional revenue and lead volume. We can either come in hands on, and do it ourselves, or we can help by consulting and doing a skill transfer and knowledge transfer into your staff while holding them accountable to do it. We're open to both options and would love the chance to get on a follow up zoom call to give additional clarity and to see if there's a deal we can agree to.

15. Now it's time to plug testimonials. We understand that not everyone reading this has testimonials when starting out, and that's ok - we encourage you to leverage stories of other brands similar to theirs that have gotten results with similar strategies to what you presented in your pitch. Obviously if you have your own testimonials, that's what is going to be plugged here and that is how this pitch will be laid out, "We've done this several times with other brands in the same niche as yours, take company X - here's some of the results that they have gotten leveraging this (show the results that you've generated, and walk them through what the company did, how long it took to get results, and show anything the company has said positively about your relationship with them if you have that too, the more visuals to support your words, the better). Here's another example, with company Y we were able to help produce XYZ for results (show up to 3-4 solid testimonials, and be sure not to consume too much time on the details, just show them implementing what the strategy your pitching this current potential client on, and the result of doing so, along with anything they said about your company). We'd love the opportunity to do the same for you guys, let us know a good time we can connect this week to go over details of how we can help."
16. During this phase of the video pitch - you'll want to start handling some common objections that they might have preventing them from getting on a follow up call with you. This part of the process increases your chances of getting on the call with the potential client, and it also shortens the sales cycle by handling objections before they happen, "A lot of times when we reach out to companies, they have some questions that prevent them from further pursuing our help, so we'd like to answers those questions now for you.
    a. For starters, we aren't looking to take anyone's job, we are looking to be a value add to the team - there's an unlimited amount of revenue driven actions a company can take and we find that it's easy for us to integrate in without creating any friction or worrying anyone.
    b. We understand that you are going to judge us by the revenue we are able to produce, therefore that's what we are focused on the most in this relationship together. We want to help bring additional leads and sales into the business, and are well trained on how to do so, we have plenty of other strategies and examples we can show you that we can take action on together.

c. (if you have results already use this one) We have plenty of results helping businesses like yours, and we're happy to get you in contact with them if you want referrals.
d. (if you offer a money back guarantee or a guarantee of any kind use this one too) We make this a risk free investment by offering XYZ of a guarantee so there's no friction in starting a deal together.
e. I know it's selfish to ask for time from you since you're a busy business owner, however I can ensure it will be valuable, we will earn every minute of our time together on our follow up call as we can provide additional insights on the strategy presented today as well as other revenue driven actions we'd like to help with, all of which you can take action on with or without us.
f. We're also happy to answer any questions via email or DM prior to the call, so you can further vet us out and see if it's a good fit or not for your company to bring us onboard.

17. Now that you've handled objections, it's time to close out the video pitch with a recap of how you'd like to help, and the call to action to hop on a follow up zoom call to coordinate the deal with the potential client, "We appreciate the time you took to check this video put, and we'd love the chance to hop on a zoom call together this week to give you additional value and to coordinate a deal together so we can help drive revenue into the business. Just to recap, we'd like to help with XYZ (plug the service you're attempting to sell them on) and we're happy to either come in and do this hands on, or through a consulting deal to skill transfer and knowledge transfer into your team. Let us know a good time we can connect tomorrow or the following day for a short follow up conversation, or shoot any questions over via email or DM. Thank you for the opportunity! Appreciate you."
18. We encourage sending video pitches on all channels
    a. This includes email, and DMs on all social channels
19. We also have a ton of deals that come from leveraging value driven follow up.
    a. Be sure to train in the DMM - Digital Marketing Manuscript on the value driven follow up training.
20. Now, the rest of this SOP will be dedicated to the agency outreach swipe file that is also available for download in the resource section in the DMM. Remember, there's 12 different example video pitches in the DMM you can easily search for upon logging in.

Agency outreach swipe file

This will help you when reaching out to potential clients with your video pitch and value driven follow up sequences

Presented by Jeremy Haynes

OVERVIEW & PURPOSE

Agency owners or digital marketers who have been trained on the perfect cold video pitch from Jeremy Haynes, can use this set of swipe file templates to help with knowing what to say when initially reaching out. There's also great copy swipe files within this document for you to use for value driven follow up.

Value driven follow up examples

You want to send this kind of follow up after sending your video pitch, it's ok if they did or didn't respond. The intention of value driven follow up is to stay top of mind with potential clients while following up with info they can actually use, that makes it so you're not annoying. Remember, sales is selfish, you're reaching out to companies and interrupting their day to day operations, you better be bringing value if you want in the game.

Hey (name)!

Hope all is well

Made a quick video follow up for you (video link)

Would love to share more about the strategy I shared within the video

Let's coordinate a call for later today or tomorrow morning?

Excited to see if we can help!
